

Putting the Gender into GBV

Engaging Men and Boys among the Afghan Refugee Community in Pakistan

PAKISTAN

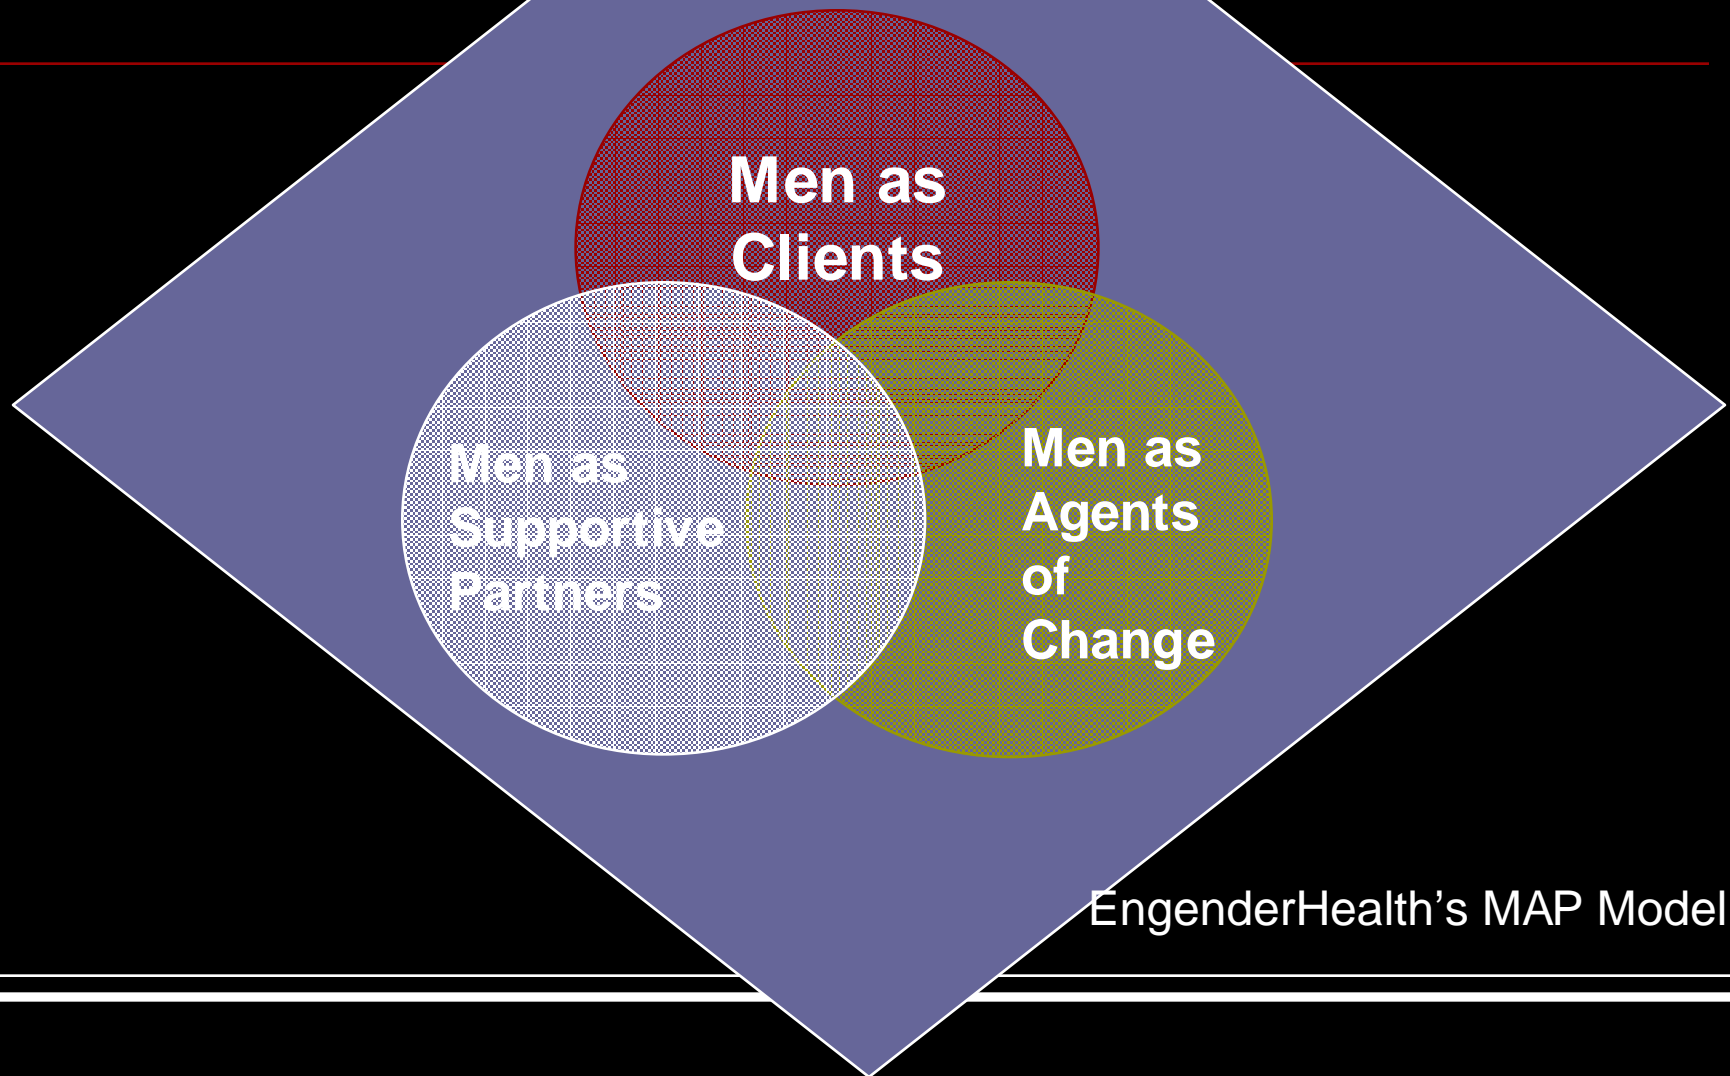

Context

- Baluchistan Province since 2002
- Afghan refugees- 170,000
- Camp based
- Primary and Reproductive Health
- RH includes GBV

Approaches to Engage Men

EngenderHealth's MAP Model

Men as Clients

Men as Clients

- Men are encouraged to use ARC services to decrease health and RH complications for their partners and to improve their own health.
- Men/boys sought services (small number).
- Awareness raising for men on services.
- ARC provider training to respond to male clients.

Clients

Men as Supportive Partners

Men as Supportive
Partners

- Men can be positive influences.
- Men play a major role in decision-making, planning and resource allocation.
- ARC view's men as allies and resources in women's development.

Men as Partners

Men as Change Agents

Men as Agents of Change

■ Men on ARC staff:

- Training on gender norms that put women and men at risk. Master trainers
- Training on SEA for all staff

■ Men in the Community:

- Curriculum, where men examine gender norms their negative affects on families. Men then develop healthier alternatives.

Men as Change Agents

Challenges

- Behaviour Change Challenges
- Challenging Environment
- Honour/obligation and sense of duty
- Sexual abuse of young boys
unacknowledged
- Access to the female population

Successes

- Male Master Trainers
- Engaging elders
- Links to Islam
- Youth

Conclusion

