

Leading through Health System Change:

A Public Health Opportunity

National Network
of Public Health Institutes

Georgia
Health Policy
Center

Public health leaders have important questions related to how the Affordable Care Act (ACA) will affect the future of public health at local, state, and national levels. The changes inherent in the ACA could have extensive implications for all aspects of the United States health system.

With input from public health professionals from across the country, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the National Network of Public Health Institutes, and the Georgia Health Policy Center have created a collaborative planning tool to help public health organizations begin to examine and discuss opportunities and challenges that health system change poses.

Use the website or interactive PDF with your own team to:

- Examine the basics of health care reform;
- Apply adaptive thinking to questions related to health system change; and
- Create a simplified implementation plan to leverage the opportunities in the health care reform law to improve population health.

Visit www.metacat.net/metacat/app/ghpc for full access to the online portal, introductory video, and an interactive PDF. Please email ghpc@gsu.edu with any comments or questions.