UNITED FOR HEALTH—HEALTHY EATING COMMITTEE

PROJECT DESCRIPTIONS

COMMUNITY GARDENS:
- Led by Pacoima Beautiful and Los Angeles Community Action Network
- Based in Pacoima and Downtown Los Angeles
- Increasing access to locally and self-grown produce by transforming unused or underutilized land into a space for not just growing healthy food, but for creating awareness and promoting community.

CORNER STORE TRANSFORMATIONS:
- Led by the Asian and Pacific Islander Obesity Prevention Alliance—a division of Special Service for Groups
- Based in Historic Filipinotown
- Increasing access to fresh fruits and vegetables by partnering with small, local businesses, and promoting more consistent sales of fresh, affordable, and culturally-relevant produce in-store.

EBT ACCESS @ FARMERS MARKETS:
- Led by LA Community Action Network
- Based in Downtown Los Angeles
- Increasing healthy food access, especially for low-income residents and community members, by working with existing farmers markets and encouraging the incorporation of EBT for low-income market-goers.

FARMERS MARKETS:
- Led by Families in Good Health
- Based in Wilmington
- Increasing healthy food access through the creation of a community-developed farmer market with Cal Fresh accessibility, which serves as a space where local communities can connect with farmers and other healthy food vendors.

POP-UP PRODUCE MARKETS:
- Led by Women Organizing Resources, Knowledge & Services
- Based in Echo Park & South Los Angeles
- Innovatively increasing access to fresh fruits and vegetables by utilizing community gathering spaces to bring such directly to community members in the form of a produce stand.
